

Life Application Questions

Is this dinner or supper?

Matthew 26:26-29; 1 Corinthians 10&11; Jude 1:12

Scratching The Surface

Breakfast, dinner, tea? Breakfast, lunch, dinner? Breakfast, lunch, supper? Or another variation...let battle commence!!!

Do you think it matters that you know what meal you're eating?

The Heart Of The Matter

If you are able to, take bread and wine together and spend time exploring each of the 6 ways that were discussed on Sunday as you do so - maybe even do this as more of a meal rather than a small bit of bread and small amount of wine? Rather than spending a few short moments in quiet contemplation, why not discuss each of the words given to us, what they mean to us and make much of Jesus as you do so. There's no need to rush on to 'study' - we'll benefit a great deal more from spending time looking to Jesus and his institution of this sacrament. You could use the words from Dave's notes last week to help you lead through?

The breaking of bread	A celebration of the resurrection
The eucharist	An act of thanksgiving and hope
Love feast	A response of love shared with family
The Lord's table	An invitation to the table
The Lord's supper	An invitation from the host
Communion	A display of unity with Christ and fellow believers

Digging Deeper

If you would like to/get time explore why it matters what we believe we are eating and drinking during communion (e.g. tran/con-substantiation, memorial, special presence etc) but avoid getting bogged down in debate and not focusing on Jesus! For more understanding on the implication of this on this you could visit:

<https://www.thegospelcoalition.org/essay/the-lords-supper/>